Among 107 industrial zones with a total planned area of nearly 3,200 hectares in Hanoi, only 42 clusters have been put into operations and out of these, only 25 clusters have wastewater treatment system planning. To date, Hanoi has only 7 industrial clusters with centralised wastewater treatment systems that meet the national standards.

The city is targeting construction of wastewater treatment systems in 7 industrial clusters in 2014. However, up until now, no centralised wastewater treatment system for industrial clusters has been completed.

For 2015, Hanoi targeting Industrial Parks having an integrated infrastructure, centralised wastewater treatment stations and solid waste treatment systems. They are determined to achieve 100 percent of centralised wastewater treatment systems in the long term.
